

I Make My Entrance!

This piece will be in personal narrative form. Because you will be describing your entrance into your family's life (on the day of your birth or the first day you met your family) you must rely on family member interviews and some imagination. Use your sense of humor if that is a strong characteristic of your personality. Be specific, this piece should only cover one time and place.

Include a description of the room, people, and general environment using your senses of smell, hearing, sight, feel, sound, and taste. Who were the significant people (parents, doctors, nurses, grandparents, aunts and uncles, siblings) who attended your birth? How must you have felt about such a new experience and each of the people present?
